Wishing and asking why?

Elk Point Elementary School students presented two outstanding Christmas Concerts last week, much enjoyed by two capacity crowds. Above, the snowflakes at Wednesday's concert listen in as Puddle (Zxayven Pelech, right) consults with Opal (Aurora Smith, right) on the right gift to give his best friend Toot.

"Why are you taking our tree?" Cindy Lou Who (Taylor Swedgan) asks the Grinch, (Dale Doucet) who has already packed up the stockings, the presents, and even the Roast Beast in his big sacks.

Snow and surprises at EPE concert

Who ever heard of pigs on a Christmas tree? That was the question as the first capacity crowd of the week filled Elk Point Elementary School's gymnasium to bursting on Wednesday for the Grade 1 to 3 and KB Christmas concert, entitled "Let It Snow!"

Following a warm welcome by emcees Kori Kozicki and Andon Ballas, "O Canada" led by Mykaela Verenka, Shaylyn Klatt and Teghan Jacobson, and the introduction of school trustee Lorne Young, EPE principal Rob MacDonald gave his Christmas message. "It always amazes me how much work and dedication goes into building a Christmas concert," he said, thanking the students and staff for their efforts in preparing for the big day.

The audience soon learned about the pig connection. It seems that two little pigs, who are best friends, want to buy meaningful gifts for each other, but they both are wondering what to get. Both are finding it hard to get in the holiday spirit when there is no snow, and one of the pigs, Puddle, is adamant that "there has to be snow, please let it snow."

A troop of youngsters warmly attired in toques, mittens and scarves added their voices to his plea with their song, "Let it Snow, Let it Snow, Let it Snow."

The other pig, little Toot, wanted to give Puddle "the best gift ever." He'd already given him a sleigh, a flowerpot garden and a raft for two, and he was running out of ideas, but time was ticking a way, a situation reinforced by a stage filled with clocks with their pendulums swinging vigorously as they asked in song, "How long until we see St. Nick?"

Political turmoil erupts over Wildrose MLAs crossing the floor to join PCs

JANANI WHITFIELD
Review Staff

Two days of frantic speculation ramped into the defection of nine Wildrose MLAs, including the party's leader, last Wednesday, but the riding's local Wildrose MLA stayed the course.

As the rumours started to swirl about MLAs crossing the floor to join the Progressive Conservative government, Shayne Saskiw took to Twitter last Monday to state, "I am committed to fighting for LLB - St. Paul. There is a rumour that I am crossing the floor tomorrow. That rumour is false."

However, leader Danielle Smith proved other rumours true, leading eight of her MLAs to join the PCs, in a move that decimated the Wildrose caucus to five MLAs, the same number as the Liberals.

Smith attributed her switch to her belief in the conservative vision under newly elected PC leader Jim Prentice, saying, "I want this premier to succeed and I want to be part-and-parcel of helping him to succeed."

She requested the party to ask members to vote on a "reunification resolution" to merge with the PCs, but Wildrose executives have already rejected this option.

Provincially, Wildrose supporters lambasted the leader and called it a betrayal, but local response was guarded. Dave Inscho, vice-president of policy for the local Wildrose executive, said his reaction was "shock," but could not add more.

"To be very honest with you, things are in such flux, I haven't even had an opportunity to wrap my head around it. It's going to take some time to figure it out," said Inscho.

Last month, the exodus of MLAs began with Kerry Towle and Ian Donovan leaving the Wildrose to join the Conservatives, while Joe Anglin left to sit as an Independent. At the time, Saskiw told the St. Paul Journal the party still had strength.

"Polling just came out that had us around 30 per cent in the polls," he said at the time. "Given the few hard weeks that we've had, I think that demonstrates that our party has resilience. We just have to be in fighting form come the next election."

The Wildrose had surged in popularity in the lead-up to the 2012 election, with pollsters predicting it could topple more than four decades of PC governance. Instead, the PCs managed to form another majority government, while facing the Wildrose as a 17-member strong Official Opposition.

Wednesday Concert

Puddle was a pig of many talents and interests: cooking, gardening, art, bird watching and more, but he was at a loss regarding gift ideas. He'd already given his friend a sweater, a ball and a plum pudding, but now what?

Christmas was coming fast, and a well dressed group sang, "There's No Christmas Like a Home Christmas" before snowflakes large and small came on the scene with the long awaited white stuff.

Toot and Puddle were still mulling over ideas, and both of them got on the phone to Toot's cousin, Opal, who strangely enough, told both of them that the perfect gift would be a homemade doll. Both decided to sleep on the idea, and while they slept, and the snowflakes sang "Snowflakes on my Window," the world received a fluffy new white coat.

Waking to a whole new world, the best friends got out their skis and went out to have fun. "I wish I could put this morning in my pocket and keep it forever," Toot declared.

"Me, too," Puddle agreed. "It's perfect."

On a perfect Canadian winter day, the perfect song, by students sporting maple leaf headgear, was "It's Merry Christmas, Eh?"

The joy was short lived, because rain followed the snow, washing it away and dampening the spirits of the two friends, but they soon perked up, taken over by a state of busy excitement as they worked on their gifts in the basement and attic and a Santa-hatted crew of students sang "Merry Christmas, Merry Christmas."

Then Christmas Eve arrived, and the two friends brought out their gaily-wrapped packages, and waited impatiently for Opal to come. Yes, they made the dolls, all right, but they gave them to her, and chose more appropriate gifts for their friends - a wagon with runners for Puddle, which Toot said was "a sleigh that didn't need snow," and for Toot, a picture of the two of them on their perfect morning of skiing. The two had realized that their friendship was the most perfect gift of all.

Zxayven Pelech starred as Puddle, Ryan Urquhart as Toot and Aurora Smith as Opal, while the rest of the cast of Wednesday's concert included Ms Gaertner's KB, Mrs. Bury's 1A, Mrs. Wozniak's 1B, Mrs. Allan's 2A, Miss Miller's 3B, Miss Ockerman's and Mrs. Stuparyk's 3A and Mrs. Martin's 3B students. The show was directed by Quinn Shelton.

WE WANT SNOW! - These students are wearing hats, scarves and mittens, but the snow is taking its time to come out and play.

ALL GREAT GIFTS
- In the past, Puddle has received a sleigh, a mystery garden pot and a raft for two from his friend Toot, who is fresh out of ideas for this year's gift.

- We often hear stories about the good and bad effects about consuming coffee. One idea that hasn't been scientifically proven but looks retrospectively at large groups of people worldwide. There is a link between drinking coffee and reducing the risk of type 2 diabetes. It doesn't seem to matter if the coffee is decaf or not but it is recommended that the coffee be drunk with little or no sugar and milk.
- E-cigarettes are not legal in Canada but in countries where they are, there has been a significant increase in the number of youth who have never smoked start to use this new device. This group was almost twice as likely to start smoking regular cigarettes than those who never used e-cigarettes. That's a concern to health professionals because nicotine is an addictive drug and can have adverse effects on the adolescent brain.
- There has been much in the media lately about vitamins and whether they are worth the money. One supplement that is worth it is the one to help minimize age-related macular degeneration (AMD). AMD can lead to blindness, but good scientific studies have shown that formulas containing zinc, lutein and other products can help prevent this serious eye problem. Our pharmacists can clarify which is the best combination.
- There are thousands of different vitamin formulations on the market in North America. How can you tell which is right for you? That's our job as your pharmacist and we'll be happy to help you with accurate information to take some of the guesswork out of this very popular subject.

The season for surprises

You never know what you'll get for Christmas, and no doubt Premier Prentice would agree, since he suddenly found former Wildrose MLAs in his Progressive Conservative stocking while the remaining five Wildrose members are left feeling like the Grinch just made off with their Christmas. Like many seasonal surprises, this one may take well into the new year to find out exactly how it will change life as they know it under the big sandstone dome.

Just as big a surprise is the decision of the USA and Cuba to settle arguments that date back to 1961. Those of us who were around back then may recall the scary situation surrounding the Cuban Missile Crisis that resulted from the Bay of Pigs invasion by American troops. Sitting between the US and Russia during the cold war was not a comfortable place to be, and while that fear is generations in the past, things between the two neighbouring countries have never been the same.

Both of these major newsmakers have a common theme, a wish that is expressed with hope each and every Christmas for the always elusive Peace on Earth.

Yes, parts of the world are still enduring unrest, war, terrorism that even axes a movie premiere, plunging oil prices and economic fears, but in times like these every small sign of peace and harmony is welcome.

Ho! Ho! Home safety tips ensure a happy holiday season

SUBMITTED

Insurance Bureau of Canada (IBC) is offering its top 10 safety tips to Canadians this holiday season.

"IBC wants to help ensure that this holiday season is not only fun, but safe. We encourage you to review our home safety tips and share them with your loved ones," said Bill Adams, Vice-President, Western & Pacific, IBC.

Their top 10 Ho! Ho! Home safety tips are:

- Keep all fresh trees and plants watered. This will prevent drying, which can be a fire hazard.
- Test and maintain your smoke and CO detectors.
- Keep your walkway and the front stairs clear of snow and ice. This will help make sure holiday visitors don't slip and fall.
- Create or review a family emergency plan.
- Update your emergency kit.
- Check your first-aid kit and replace missing supplies.
- Update your home inventory. This is especially important if you receive expensive or meaningful gifts this holiday season
- Review your insurance policy. If you have questions, contact your insurance representative.
- If you go on vacation, even for a few days, leave the heat on - at an energy saving setting- and have someone you trust check on your home while you are away.
- Regularly run water through all your plumbing fixtures.

Town plays Santa, snow curbs activities, concert a zoo

HERE'S THE NEWS THAT MADE THE HEADLINES OF THE LAKELAND REVIEW AND ELK POINT REVIEW FOR THE WEEK OF DEC.23 IN...

1984

Town council played Santa, ratifying the purchase of the recreation land and giving the go-ahead to the construction of a new library, with the library board and the contractor visiting the last meeting of the year to negotiate on the cost of the building, with the board willing to cut $4,000 from their furnishing budget to go toward the building's air conditioning and council volunteering to pay the balance of the unit's $7,140 cost from general reserves. Al Harlton of Alberta Tourism and Small Business spoke to the Elk Point Chamber of Commerce and urged formation of an economic development committee in Elk Point.

1989

Snow and cold curbed pre-Christmas activities, with up to 25 cm of frigid fluff marooning Light Horse Club horse trailers, wagons and sleighs and disappointing those who had hoped for a sleigh ride as part of the Christmas Extravaganza activities, however all other events went as scheduled. A power outage left Elk Point and areas north and west in the cold and dark, with extreme cold given as the probable cause of a broken line east of Elk Point.

1994

Who needed Candy Cane Lane? Walter and Marie Lesyk, Brenda and Rick Patroch and Jody and Dennis Boyko were the winners in the chamber of comers Lighting and Decorating Contest with their eye-catching displays. Town council met with their County counterparts, discussing the airport, fire department, ambulance service and landfill site, with the airport runway project completed at the cost of $283,000, 60 per cent of the cost coming from Alberta Transportation and $43,000 each coming from Amoco and Pan Canadian Petroleum.

Elk Point's Roman Catholic, Ukrainian Catholic and United churches combined congregations for a glorious celebration of music that filled the United Church to capacity, with Rev Jope Langejans, "the mayor of Bethlehem" for the evening, declaring, "Let the mystery of Christmas begin!" Town Council debated their 2000 budget, and expressed hope, provided there is not a large increase in school tax requisition, they should be able to go with the same mill rate as 1999 and hold the line on taxation.

2004

It was a zoo at the Elk Point Elementary School first concert, with parading penguins, a singing hyena, monkeys who let all the animals out of their cages, and friendly beasts around the manger that helped the very frazzled zookeeper regain his perspective. The second concert told an Inuit legend passed down through the ages of a little boy who became lost in the long winter night and who was found by a not-so-scary Abominable Snowman and his friends.

2009

Santa reluctantly went green, right down to his suit, at Elk Point Elementary Christmas Concert, after some serious lobbying by Mrs. Santa and the elves, as solar panels went up on the housetop and Rudolph got a 'smart' nose as part of a movement to explore environmentally friendly options. The second concert answered the question, "Is Santa smarter than an Elementary student?" in a lighthearted takeoff of a popular television show.

Playschool entertains families with festive songs

VICKI BROOKER
Review Staff

A packed crowd of delighted parents, grandparents and siblings was on hand at the Christian Community Church last Tuesday for the Jack and Jill Playschool Christmas Concert.

Playschool instructor Tammy Klatt said the annual event is "a rewarding opportunity. It amazes me how fast each year goes." She advised everyone to "take time to enjoy the little moments" that make up the Christmas season.

Klatt read two poems, "A Recipe for Christmas All Year Long" and "A Christmas and New Year Wish" before inviting the school's birthday boy, Brendan Kadutski, on stage to receive special recognition, with everyone joining in to sing "Happy Birthday."

The morning class then took the stage to perform three songs, "Jingle Bells," "Santa's On His Way" and the "Reindeer Song." The afternoon class followed with their rendition of "Jingle Bells," "Guess Who?" and "Twinkle, Twinkle, Christmas Star." Both classes joined to sing "Merry Christmas to Everyone," "We Wish You a Merry Christmas" and a final round of "Jingle Bells."

Klatt presented each student with a photo ornament and a personalized snowman centerpiece before a loud "Ho! Ho! Ho!" announced the arrival of a very special guest, who then took centre stage and visited with each and every student.

The morning wound up with a potluck lunch.

Jack and Jill Playschool's morning class sings out with Christmas joy.

The playschool's afternoon class jingled along with their holiday favourite.

MAKE IT STOP! The Grinch has heard way too much hilarity!

'Grinch' and friends steal Thursday audience's hearts

VICKI BROOKER
Review Staff

Exactly 48 years to the day after "How the Grinch Stole Christmas" was first broadcast on television, that same favourite Christmas tale came live, and with music, to the stage of Elk Point Elementary School on Thursday at the second concert of the season.

Emcess Coby Warawa and Sydnee Crawford welcomed the capacity crowd and introduced Dalyn Parr, Mykaela Verenka and Jorja Theriault, who led the singing of "O Canada" before principal Rob MacDonald came forward to thank all who made the concert possible, noting that "this is a commitment that deserves our respect."

Suddenly the stage was filled with green-shirted Whos, who love Christmas with all their hearts and sang, "Deck the Halls" with joy and vigor. They were quickly replaced by another group, who sang the praises of the season's nonstop feasting, and then by a third group, this time an ECS class, many of them in feather-decked hats, who added their song to the medley.

All this was just too much for the Grinch, lurking at the side of the stage, who finally put his big green hands over his ears to drown them out, commenting, "The more they sing, the more I think it must end. I know what to do; I'll dress up as Santa. I just need a reindeer!" His somewhat reluctant dog Max was pressed into service, with antlers that matched those on the next singers on stage, who sang "Rudolph the Red-Nosed Reindeer" as Max and the Grinch did a little soft-shoe dance.

The next herd of reindeer took their places behind the rows of xylophones in the impromptu orchestra pit and played "Up on the Housetop."

As the phony, green-faced Santa slid down the chimney and stuffed stockings, presents, the Who pudding and even the Roast Beast into his bags and was about to stuff the tree up the chimney, another set of musicians, these wearing wreath-like headdresses took the first group's place, and took up a set of percussion instruments for their version of "O Christmas Tree."

Another group, this time larger reindeer, recited the story of Cindy Lou Who, who asked the phony Santa, "Why are you taking our tree?" and fell for his story about it needing repairs, before she toddled back to bed.

'Santa' even took the logs from the fire, "and went back up the chimney, the old liar," the next group of students, in Santa hats, told the audience, before being replaced by students in striped hats, who said the Grinch giggled at the thought of all the Whos waking up and boo-hooing, but was perplexed when the sound he heard was singing.

It was the other kindergarten class, cheerfully welcoming Christmas day, a merry sound that was a shocking surprise to the Grinch: the Whos were singing without any presents at all! He hadn't stopped Christmas, and he wondered if perhaps Christmas doesn't come from a store. Suddenly his tiny little heart grew five sizes, he brought back the presents, the tree and the feast, and more singers caroled "Here Comes Santa Claus" as he carved the Roast Beast!

Political turmoil

However, Saskiw was unable to be reached for comment last week about his thoughts on his own political future and the future of the party.

Local PC weighs in

Meanwhile, the Lac La Biche-St. Paul-Two Hills Progressive Conservative party was focusing on the future, which was looking even brighter to the executive's chair. The Tories now hold 72 of the legislature's 87 seats.

"I think the feeling out there is that we're heading in the right direction," said Don Schultz. "We have the right leadership and the right attitude."

Besides the floor crossings, he said a sign of the party's strength is that after Jim Prentice was selected as a party leader, he steered the PCs to four by-election wins in October, which dealt a blow to the Wildrose.

"Just that alone tells you people are changing their thoughts on the PC party and where we're going."

As a lifelong member of the PCs, Schultz has had moments of worry for the party, but believes that with Prentice, the PCs have been given another chance to show it will do what is right for the people of Alberta.

So far, five or six people have indicated they are interested in running for the nomination for the party, including current Town of St. Paul Mayor Glenn Andersen. Schultz is hoping that one person from each part of the riding will be in the race.

However, the more people that run, the more memberships are sold, and he notes, "It's all to get the interest in the party rejuvenated in our riding."

A NEW KIND OF INSTRUMENT adds a different flair to Thursday's concert.

In loving memory of a dear husband, father, grandfather and great-grandfather.

Your heart of gold stopped beating
Two smiling eyes at rest
God broke our hearts to prove
He only takes the Best.
The tears in our eyes will wipe away
But the love in our hearts
Will forever stay.

Unprecedented

PASTOR JIM MACLELLAN
Elk Point Baptist Church

The word I have heard most often this year, in the news is "unprecedented." Indeed it means: without previous instance or never before known. As Canadians we have experienced unprecedented events in our nation including natural disasters and terror. We now face another Christmas and we approach the end of another year. We will move from 2014 to 2015.

How does Christmas relate to New Years? The most widely used calendar is the Gregorian calendar. It's numbering system indicates the number of years since the conception or birth of Jesus of Nazareth. We would normally add the designation A.D. meaning literally "in the year of our Lord Jesus Christ." 2014 indicates another unprecedented event: the virgin birth of Jesus Christ. It is an epochal event such that every time we write the date we are reminded of its significance.

Never in the history of mankind has a woman conceived a baby through the power of the Holy Spirit such that this baby would be fully human and yet be fully divine. This is the essence of the Christian faith: God took on human flesh (1 John 4:2). It is incorporated in His Name: Immanuel, God with us. His birth was acclaimed by myriads of angels and affirmed by wise men from the East. The most universal and basic Christian creed bears witness to this truth: "I believe in Jesus Christ, his only Son, our Lord. He was conceived by the power of the Holy Spirit and born of the Virgin Mary."

The writing of the date on your cards or its imprint on your bank cheque is a quiet attestation to the fact that nearly two thousand and fifteen years ago God entered time and space and was born of the Virgin Mary. It is He who lived a perfect and sinless life – indeed, unprecedented; and it is He who took on His human body the punishment due to all mankind – again, unprecedented. And it is He who simply invites us to place our trust in Him, to which He guarantees eternal life. Unprecedented!

On behalf of the congregation of Elk Point Baptist Church, we invite you to have an unprecedented experience with the Lord Jesus Christ, if you have never done so, by yielding your life to Him in genuine faith. And in the words of Phillips Brooks: O holy Child of Bethlehem, descend to us, we pray; Cast out our sin, and enter in, be born in us today. For many of us that would be UNPRECEDENTED! We wish you a very happy and blessed Christmas.

Wishing You a Good Old-Fashioned Christmas!

Merry Christmas! Have a safe and festive holiday season!

We greatly appreciate your support!

SADD takes part in Candy Cane Checkstop

SHERRY BOWER-GAGNE
F. G. Miller High School

F. G. Miller High School's SADD (Students Against Destructive Decisions, also known as Students Against Drinking and Driving) students joined Elk Point RCMP, Prairie EMS and Elk Point Fire Dept for the Candy Cane Check-Stop last Monday night. We were located at the junction of Highways 41 and 646 and promoted awareness, message of driving responsibly and not under the influence.

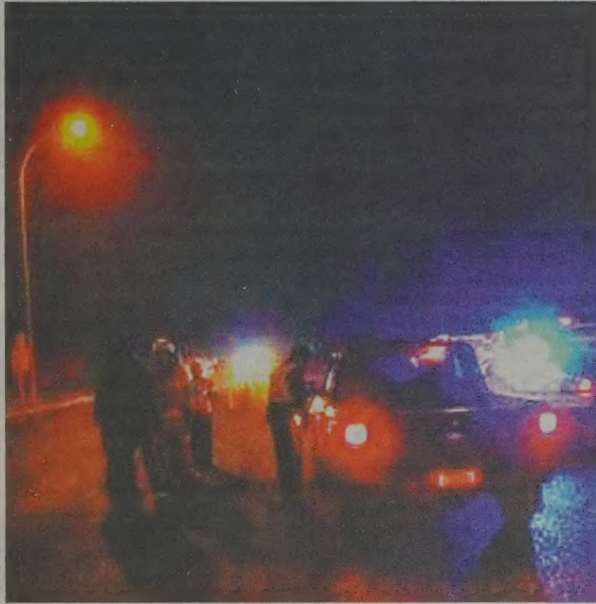

The students witnessed first hand what happens when someone chooses to drive while under the influence and is pulled aside and goes through the consequence of their actions. It was an excellent learning experience, the kids built positive relationships with our local emergency services. We froze together, had fun together and spread the message that the kids in our community care about the choices people make. We wished many a Merry Christmas and the hope of everyone making positive not destructive choices. Please make the choice not to drive while under the influence. Your decisions affect us all.

In attendance were students Brianna Stranger, Leshawn Jenkins, Iris Baguinon and Brooke Krider, mentors; Sherry Bower-Gagne and Donna Krider, Prairie EMS personnel Alix Knight and Matt Brown, RCMP Sgt Dave Casey, Cst. Garnier and Cst. Ryan, Fire Dept. Captain Curtis Kulczycki and Jeff Oracheski.
